Four days of excellence

Eilat Chamber Music Festival

The star of this year's festival was Viktoria Mullova, who performed Mozart's Violin Concerto no.3 for two consecutive evenings. Her stage presence, as well as her beautiful, lyrical and warm sound, offered the auditors a strong and unique musical experience.

The rest of the concert with Geneva Camerata and conductor David Greilsammer presented a wide variety of styles. We went from Matthew Locke's extraordinary English Baroque suite from "The Tempest", to Haydn's Symphony no.85 in an exciting interpretation, and all the way to a fascinating contemporary work named "Uruk", composed by the young Swiss composer Martin Jaggi.
